THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

DISTRICT OF UTAH

---

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Plaintiff,

vs.

Andrew Christopher Copeland,

Defendant.

MEMORANDUM DECISION AND ORDER CONTINUING TRIAL AND EXCLUDING TIME
UNDER THE SPEEDY TRIAL ACT

Case No. 1:20-cr-00100-DBB

District Judge David Barlow

---

This Order Continuing Trial and Excluding Time Under the Speedy Trial Act is entered in response to the outbreak of the Coronavirus Disease (COVID-19) in the District of Utah.

On March 13, 2020, a National Emergency was declared in response to the nationwide outbreak, which the World Health Organization has declared a global pandemic. The court continues to monitor closely the state of the COVID-19 health crisis in Utah and around the nation. The number of Utahns receiving vaccines is falling even as daily cases of COVID-19 in Utah are increasing. Utah and the nation remain in the midst of the most serious global pandemic in over a century. Globally, it is estimated that more than 180 million people have been infected, and nearly 4,000,000 have died from the disease. The Judicial Conference of the United States has found that emergency conditions due to the national COVID-19 crisis have affected and continue to materially affect the functioning of the federal courts. State and federal courts are beginning to carefully move toward safe reopening as condition in different regions of the country permit.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) continues to issue guidance to combat the spread of COVID-19 and to promote the health and well-being of the nation. This guidance includes recommendations that all Americans avoid close contact with others (i.e., being within six feet), among other things. There are nationwide now over 45 million confirmed cases of Americans infected with COVID-19, resulting in over 730,000 deaths. Utah has now confirmed more than 540,000 cases, resulting in nearly 24,000 hospitalizations and more than 3,000 deaths. COVID-19 test positivity rates remain above levels necessary to reduce community spread, and infection rates are climbing. Crucially, the Delta COVID variant remains the dominant variant in Utah. The state has been unable for many months to reduce infection and diminish serious disease, particularly among those who are not vaccinated.

Taking into account all of the available and relevant data, including the numbers of daily new cases and hospitalizations, test positivity rates, ICU capacity in Utah hospitals, the availability of vaccines and the vaccination rates, the introduction and spread of several variants of the COVID-19 virus with unknown implications, as well as enhanced treatment capabilities for those infected with COVID-19, the court concludes the pandemic continues to present an ongoing health emergency in Utah. Additionally, the Court has issued a number of General Court Orders in response to the outbreak of COVID-19 in the District of Utah, which may be found on the Court's website at <https://www.utd.uscourts.gov/united-states-district-court-district-utah-covid-19-information-center>. Most recently, General Order 21-015 announced the continuation of Phase 2 of the court's reopening plan limiting criminal jury trials to one courtroom to be scheduled consecutively in the court's special proceedings courtroom. It also included findings and conclusions for an "ends of justice" exclusion of time through January 31, 2022 under the Speedy Trial Act.

An “ends of justice” exclusion of time under the Speedy Trial Act is disfavored and “was meant to be a rarely used tool for those cases demanding more flexible treatment.”<sup>1</sup> However, based on the ongoing nature of the COVID-19 outbreak in the District, the effect of national and local public health recommendations and directives, and the findings and conclusions in General Orders 20-009 through 20-012, 20-017, 20-020, 20-021, 20-026, 20-028, 20-029, 20-030, 20-033, 21-001, 21-003, 21-007, 21-009, 21-012, 21-014, and 21-015, it is necessary and appropriate to continue trial in this case and exclude time under the Speedy Trial Act until such time as this trial can be scheduled in the special proceedings courtroom or until conditions improve such that the courthouse can simultaneously host more than one petit jury at a time. The high number of COVID-19 cases and deaths nationally, and in Utah, demand modifications in court practices to protect the public health. Courts and court operations are necessarily social operations, involving many people.

The need to protect the health of the public during a deadly pandemic outweighs the rights of Defendant and the public to a speedy trial. Moreover, there is a significantly reduced ability to obtain an adequate spectrum of jurors and available counsel, witnesses, and court personnel to be present in the courtroom for trial. Empaneling a jury, conducting a trial, and arranging jury deliberations, with due regard for health and safety, considering the broad spectrum of participants and their contacts outside the court, is not currently possible in the physical facilities available to the court for more than one trial at a time. Long exposure in confined spaces, which is inherent in trial, increases risk of infection. Video and audio conferencing, used for hearings, are not available for trials. Counsel's ability to adequately prepare for trial, including locating and consulting with witnesses, and defense counsel's ability to confer with Defendant, under these circumstances is also greatly reduced.

A failure to continue trial under these circumstances would result in a miscarriage of justice<sup>2</sup> and would deny counsel for the government and Defendant the reasonable time necessary for effective preparation, taking into account the exercise of due diligence.<sup>3</sup> Therefore, the ends of justice served by such a continuance outweigh the best interests of the public and Defendant in a speedy trial.<sup>4</sup> This continuance is not predicated on general congestion of the court's calendar or lack of diligent preparation by counsel.<sup>5</sup>

ORDER

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the 3-day jury trial previously scheduled to begin on November 5, 2021 is continued to the 4th of February, 2022 at 9:00 a.m. Accordingly, the time from the entry of General Order 20-009, March 16, 2020, and the new trial date is excluded from Defendant's speedy trial computation for good cause.

SO ORDERED this 28th day of October, 2021.
